[^0]This typeface began with the question "If letters were magicked into existence, what would they look like?" The question led me down a bit of a rabbit hole but the conclusion was Avona and Avona Serif.

Avona Serif draws inspiration from Carolingian letter forms and aims to captured the calligraphic round, wide structure. The wide proportions are uncommon in the UI typeface landscape but are integral to it's ability to radiate fantasy vibes. When combined with Avona as the display typeface, the two work together to create a visual feel of something from a long ago time of magic while still appropriate and functional for current technology.

I first released a beta version in late 2020 which included a very limited character set. Avona Serif now includes extensive Latin Language support, numeral sets, fractions, and a curved diagonals alternate set. I am planning on adding small caps and italics at a later date.

Light 9pt

Now, when Uther Pendragon had passed through all the land, and settled it-and even voyaged into all the countries of the Scots, and tamed the fierceness of that rebel people-he came to London, and ministered justice there. And it befell at a certain great banquet and high feast which the king made at Easter-tide, there came, with many other earls and barons, Gorloïs, Duke of Cornwall, and his wife Igerna, who was the most famous beauty in all Britain. And soon thereafter, Gorloïs being slain in battle, Uther determined to make Igerna his own wife. But in order to do this, and enable him to come to her-for she was shut up in the high castle of Tintagil, on the furthest coast of Cornwall-the king sent for Merlin, to take counsel with him and to pray his help. This, therefore, Merlin promised him on one condition-namely, that the king should give him up the first son born of the marriage. For Merlin by his arts foreknew that this firstborn should be the long-wished prince, King Arthur.
